Thrill-seekers, ride-goers and onlookers alike were offered plenty of opportunity to get their fix at the Oktoberfest Festival held Friday though Sunday at the Veteran’s Memorial Park in Sierra Vista. The fest offered a variety of rides, carnival-style contests, and vendors. The fest served as a precursor to the Fun Festival which will be held Friday through Sunday at Fort Huachuca’s Special Events Field next to the La Hacienda. The Fun Fest will offer many different rides, vendors, live music, food and more. Learn what’s new at Morale, Welfare and Recreation. For more information, see Page B6.

Youth soccer kicks off Sept. 23

Youth soccer teams are in practice now for their season which begins Sept. 23.

The teams are comprised of players from Fort Huachuca and the surrounding communities and will play one another during the season. Some teams may play in Tucson tournaments also.

“The older kids will play to win, but the focus with the younger kids isn’t winning or losing — [it’s] just about getting them into playing the game,” said Staff Sgt. Svet Vukomanovich, personnel accounting center noncommissioned officer, Non-commissioned Officer Academy here, and an assistant coach for two of the teams.

“That’s a good thing,” Vukomanovich added. “That way the kids learn the game and their self-esteem isn’t affected by losing.”

“It’s really good for the kids,” said Lori Pomeroy, wife of Sgt. Maj. Roy Pomeroy, Army Reserve liaison and head coach of “The Packers,” sponsored by Central Self Storage. “It gets them out and teaches them about teamwork.”

Vukomanovich’s teams started practice about a month ago, and The Packers started about a week ago. Although the teams are set, “We can still accept some players,” Vukomanovich said.

Those interested should visit the Oscar Yrun Community Center in Sierra Vista to sign up for the season. Opening ceremonies are Sept. 23, so time is short.

“This isn’t about winning and losing,” Vukomanovich said, “we’re out here to teach the kids how to play and how to have fun.”

Fishingreport

By Rory Aikens
Ariz. Game and Fish Dept.

Rory's Fishing Tips:
The walleye bite is turning on at Show Low Lake, Upper Lake Mary and Long Lake, with Lake Powell being another choice. As the water and weather cools at Apache Lake, walleye fishing should also pick up there. No matter what bait or style of fishing you use (even crankbaits), try taking a very small piece of night crawler and placing it on the hook - the scent of night crawler might just make the difference in catching some of these delectable fish.

The striper fishing at Powell has slowed, so the striper hot spots are Willow Beach, Havasu and Lake Mohave in that order.

Also, lots of 12 to 15-inch pike are being caught at Parker Canyon Lake south of Tucson. Go catch pike there to help out the aquatic resource (please practice catch, keep and eat on these illegally introduced pike).

SOUTHERN WATERS
TUCSON URBAN - The urban lakes were stocked the week of July 12th with channel catfish, this was the last stocking for all urban lakes until the week of Sept. 25. Due to very low oxygen levels, Lakeside has experienced an almost total fish kill. Lakeside is not scheduled to be stocked until the oxygen level stabilizes at normal levels. Anglers are reporting very slow fishing at Silverbell and Kennedy, but are still catching some bass, catfish and sunfish. Buy a two pole stamp and try different baits to double your chances. Those

2000 U.S. Army Solider Show takes the stage in Sierra Vista

By Tanja M. Linton

“Carpe Diem! Seize the Day!” is the theme of the 2000 U.S. Army Solider Show. This year’s show is scheduled to put on three performances at the Buena Performing Arts Center in Sierra Vista.

The 26-member cast takes the stage with more than 50 songs for an 80-minute show Sept. 29 at 7 p.m. and Sept. 30 at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m.

The shows are free and open to the public, but audience members must have tickets. Tickets will be available Sept. 18 at La Hacienda and the MWR Box Office.

Spc. Krisandra Jackson of Headquarters Company, 306th Military Intelligence Battalion on Fort Huachuca is a member of this year’s cast. “Being selected for the 2000 U.S. Army Solider Show is important to me because I’ve wanted to do it ever since I saw the show while at basic training. Traveling singing, dancing and performing has been my life dream since I can remember sitting in front of the TV as a kid and watching Whitney Houston or Mariah Carey live in concert,” said Jackson.

Between May 12 and Nov. 12, 2000, the cast and crew of this year’s show will stage 111 performance in 23 states and five countries including Turkey, Germany, Bosnia, and Italy. They will travel to 56 installations, 37 of them in the U.S., and perform in four metro locations for U.S. Army Recruiting Command.

AMERICAN PSYCHO
Lions Gate Films (Directed by: Mary Harron; Starring: Christian Bale, Willem Dafoe, Jared Leto, Josh Lucas, Samantha Mathis, Matt Ross, Bill Sage, Chloe Sevigny, Justin Theroux, Guinevere Turner, Reese Witherspoon.)
Rated R: Strong violence, sexuality, drug use and language.
Family Factor: I wouldn't recommend this for anyone under the age of 17. The violence, while not "splatterhouse" gory, is intense, and there is a good degree of sex.

Based on the early '90s book of the same name, this film introduces us to Patrick Bateman (Christian Bale). A late-'80s power executive who has everything from designer suits to designer drugs. Bateman lives in a world of greed and power where image is everything and credit cards hold more value than flesh.

Bateman works for some powerful organization doing something powerful as all his group of friends do. What they do isn't as important as what they are — money-hungry, shallow, greedy, and nearly devoid of human emotion.

Bateman also has a secret life. He claims, using movie-land's inner voice — that the Bateman everyone sees isn't the real Bateman. That no one sees him. That you may see a look of concern, compassion or humor, but that nothing is there. He claims the only emotions he's truly capable of are contempt and disgust.

With such an understanding of how detached he is from humanity, Bateman has found only one thing that puts him back in touch with his emotions — slaughtering people. He starts small — a street person here, a hooker there — but his lust for murder begins to overwhelm him. It peaks when he eviscerates one of the members of his group — rival business partner Paul

Allen (Jared Leto).

His world takes a sudden change. By day he tries to cope with his business life, but with Paul's apartment empty, he has a place to perform his mass murders. Also, private investigator Donald Kimball (Willem Dafoe) shows up asking about Paul Allen.

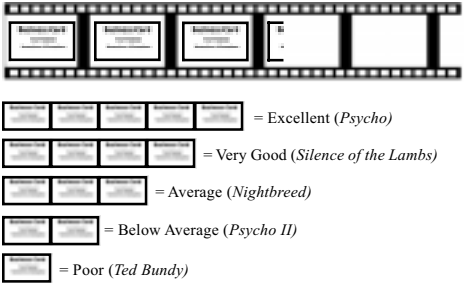

Longing to keep himself out of prison, but also needing to feel his humanity, Bateman goes through a series of reflections about who he is and what he's becoming.

business, to his bloody repast, he tries to capture the humanity he's lost — or never had. What he truly wants is some catharsis, some release from the dual life he's leading.

What the film leaves us to do is figure out what Bateman's motivation for murder was. It even leaves us wondering if any of it really happened at all.

As movies go, the film is well shot and acted, but brutally dingy and unapologetic about its subject matter. In some places it's a little too vague, but recovers in the end. All in all, a good rent. I give the film: three-and-one-quarter business cards.

HERE ON EARTH
20th Century Fox (Directed by: Mark Piznarski; Starring: Chris Klein, LeeLee Sobieski, Josh Hartnell, Bruce Greenwood, Annette O'Toole, Annie Corley, Stuart Wilson, Michael Rooker.)
Rated PG-13: Some sensuality and thematic elements.
Family Factor: I hate it when the rating's people say "thematic elements." You never really know what they're talking about. Let's just say this is a really light PG-13 and you can treat it as PG. Somebody dies, not brutally, you're prepared for it, and it's done tastefully.

Showings

Today — X-MEN - Patrick Stewart, Hugh Jackman - "X-Men" is the live-action, big-screen adaptation of the most popular comic book series ever. Outcasts since birth, the X-Men are the next step of human evolution, each born with a unique genetic mutation that gives them extraordinary powers that they've learned to harness for the greater good. But mankind fears what it doesn't understand, and the X-Men soon realize that the race they fight to protect against incalculable evil rejects them. (Sci-fi action violence.) Rated PG-13.

Friday Sept. 15 and Wednesday Sept. 20 — SCARY MOVIE - Shawn Wayans, Marlon Wayans - It all starts with the murder of a beautiful high school classmate, after which a group of misguided teens - all played, of course, by 20 to 30-year-old actors - discovers there is a killer among them. Heroine Cindy and her clique of clueless friends must protect themselves from danger ... and that pesky reporter Gail Hailstorm who just won't leave them alone! Sound familiar? It certainly is, but as the story gets underway, a series of gruesome and hilarious surprises blows the lid off the expected plot twists and turns them into something funny and twisted. (Strong crude sexual humor, language, drug use and violence.) Rated R.

Saturday Sept. 16 and Sunday Sept. 17 — NUTTY PROFESSOR II: THE KLUMPS - Eddie Murphy, Janet Jackson - Sherman thought he had seen the last of his alter-ego, but Buddy Love is back. Having done his best to keep Buddy buried in his subconscious, the portly professor is horrified to find him resurfacing in untimely outbursts, and threatening his marriage plans to colleague Denise. Sherman battles to restore order to his family, and marry the woman he loves, before all hell breaks loose. (Crude humor and sex-related material.) Rated PG-13.

— Unless otherwise indicated, all shows start at 7 p.m. Ticket are $3 for adults, $1.50 for children. Wednesday, Thursday and all matinee shows are 99 cents.

— NOTICE: The Cochise Theatre is closed Mondays and Tuesdays.

pressuring him to set a date for the final commitment. He loathes the idea and actually loathes her, plus he's having an affair with Courtney Rowlinson (Samantha Mathis). He doesn't much care for her either, but doesn't understand why Courtney can't leave her fiancé.

As the film winds down, Bateman's life begins to take a frantic pace. From his friends, lovers and I didn't expect this film to be much good. I was expecting a rehash of "A Walk in the Clouds," or maybe "Say Anything." What you get however, is a very touching film about love, death and dealing with both.

Chris Klein plays Kelley, a rich kid who's about to graduate valedictorian of a Massachusetts private high school. Of course, the local townsfolk don't really like all the kids their as the majority of the townsfolk are average-income, small-town people.

Graduation is only a week away and Kelley's father can't make it, so he sends his son a nice graduation present — a brand-new, BMW coupe. But it's the school's policy that students can't have vehicles while there, so the dean makes

Kelley give up the car until graduation day. Giving up the car didn't sit well with Kelley, so he steals it back one night to go into town and do some driving around. He and two friends stop at a local restaurant where they run into Samantha (LeeLee Sobieski). Kelley hits on her, but she flat turns him down while her boyfriend Jasper (Josh Hartnell) watches from a couple of tables away. Jasper and Kelley have words, which takes them outside and then moves into a car chase. Both boys simply seem to be trying to outrun each other — Kelly in his BMW and Jasper in his classic muscle car — but their simple race quickly turns tragic.

As Jasper and Kelley turn back into town, Jasper loses control of his car and runs into the gasoline pumps in front of his girlfriend's restaurant. Flames flame and the restaurant is demolished.

Both Kelley and Jasper wind up in court and they are ordered (both being first-time offenders) to pay some restitution and perform community service by rebuilding the restaurant. Kelley's school won't let him reside there that summer, so Jasper's parents put him up in a spare bedroom they have.

As Kelley and Jasper work to rebuild the eatery, they have their intense moments, but the true test comes when Kelley and Samantha begin to become closer. Jasper, at first, thinks Kelley alone is trying to make time with her, but he soon learns she seems really attracted to him also. Jasper tries to stop it, but the "undeniable force of love" rules out.

Samantha and Kelley become lovers (as I said before, it's a really light PG-13, so don't take that too harshly), and it's eating Jasper up inside.

The real crux of the film comes when Kelley finds out Samantha has cancer and she's dying. He had lost his mother to suicide when he was a child and still hadn't come to grips with death. He initially visits Sam in the hospital, but when he learns it's fatal and that there's nothing the doctor's can do, he retreats.

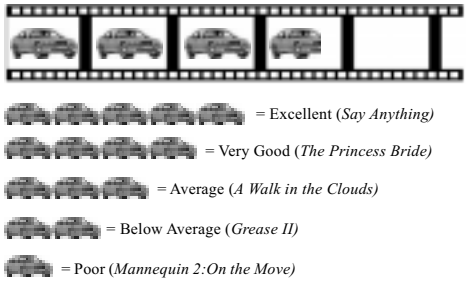

Jasper spends a lot of time at the hospital and tries to get Kelley to visit. Once the restaurant is complete, he leaves and Sam's family can't seem to understand why.

In the end, it works out. Sam does die, of course, but it's not a complete tragedy.

As I said earlier, I felt the film was going to be a rehash of some earlier films, it contains some surprises and twists. Played beautifully by Chris Klein (the jock in "American Pie) and LeeLee Sobieski (the costume-shop owner's daughter in "Eyes Wide Shut") both actors really pull this movie off. Great plot, good acting, but mediocre development. The film still ranks as a great rent. I give the film: three-and-three-quarter BMWs.

CLUFF RANCH - Slow for warm water species, although some crappie and bass are being caught. For lake information call (520) 485-9430.

ROPER LAKE - Slow for bass, and catfish. For largemouth bass try fishing jigs along the breaks and outside edges of the cattails. Good for sunfish; use worms in shady areas. For lake information call (520) 428-6760.

DANKWORTH POND - Poor for all species. For lake information call (520) 428-6760.

ARIVACA - The oxygen level is not stable and the lake is experiencing some fish kills. Surveys show fair numbers of small bass, but almost no fish exceeding 12 inches. No other fish stockings are planned until September or October when water quality stabilizes. Due to elevated mercury readings in the warm water species, (bass, sunfish and catfish) it is recommended that these fish not be eaten until further notice. Catch and release should be practiced.

PENA BLANCA - The boat ramp at Pena Blanca Lake has been repaired after flooding undercut the road. Fishing is fair to good for bass, best fishing at night. Recent surveys show a healthy bass population with good numbers of fish in the 15 to 18 inch range. Use artificial worms in rocky areas where the aquatic vegetation is less dense for largemouth bass. The weeds have been cut, so fishing access has improved. Due to elevated mercury readings in the warm water species (bass, sunfish, crappie and catfish), it is recommended that these fish not be eaten until further notice. Catch-and-release should be practiced. For lake information call (520) 281-2296.

PATAGONIA -Fishing is fair to good for warm water species; bass, sunfish and catfish. Best fishing is early morning, late evening and at night. Recent surveys show excellent populations of bass and sunfish. Try artificial crayfish or worms close to the shore at breaks in the cattails. Try worms in shady areas for large bluegill and redear sunfish. Crappie fishing is fair. Channel catfish are biting on worms, hotdogs or stink bait. For lake information call (520) 287-6063.

PARKER CANYON - Fishing is fair for warm water species (bass, catfish and sunfish). Try artificial worms or night crawlers. Lots of small northern pike in the 12 to 15 inch range are being caught. Try flies, corn, worms, and Power Bait, crankbaits and spinner baits. The limit is six northern pike. Anglers are encouraged to try to catch this illegally introduced species. The water level is rising, boat launching is not a problem. For lake information call (520) 455-5847.

PICACHO RESERVOIR - Due to extremely low water conditions Picacho Reservoir has experienced a fish kill.

ROSE CANYON LAKE - Is stocked with rainbow trout. Fishing is good. For lake and camping information call (520) 749-8700.
